

MBHIDIYA INTELLIGENCE

Cross-Border Intelligence for High-Stakes Decisions

We help organisations investigate the people, companies, networks and markets behind critical business decisions across Canada, Africa and other cross-border commercial environments.

Where Intelligence Meets Action.

ABOUT US

Intelligence Beyond What Is Obvious

Mbhidiya Intelligence is an intelligence and investigations firm helping organisations make better decisions in complex, high-risk and cross-border environments.

We work where conventional information becomes insufficient.

Our role is not simply to collect information. We help clients understand what the information means, what may be missing, what does not add up, who is connected to whom, where relevant risks may exist and what requires further verification.

We combine open-source intelligence, investigative methodology, corporate research, digital intelligence, network analysis and strategic assessment to produce intelligence designed to support real-world decisions.

Our Mission

To help organisations reduce uncertainty by providing clear, defensible and actionable intelligence about people, companies, relationships and markets.

Our Approach

1. Define the Decision

Every engagement begins with a practical question. What decision does the client need to make?

2. Identify the Intelligence Gap

We determine what is known, what remains unclear and what information could materially affect the decision.

3. Investigate

We conduct appropriate research and investigative work to collect, verify and analyse relevant information.

4. Connect the Dots

We examine relevant people, companies, ownership structures, digital footprints, relationships and other connections.

5. Assess

We distinguish between verified information, indicators, allegations and intelligence gaps.

6. Deliver

We provide a clear intelligence assessment identifying relevant findings, risks, gaps and areas requiring further verification.

WHAT WE DO

Turning Information Into Decision Intelligence

Information is increasingly available. Understanding what matters is the challenge.

Mbhidiya Intelligence brings an investigative mindset to commercial and strategic decisions.

We help organisations understand:

- Who they are dealing with
- Who owns or controls an organisation
- Who influences key decision-makers
- What relationships may exist behind the visible structure
- What information may be missing
- What risks may exist beneath the surface
- What requires further verification
- What could become a problem after a transaction or relationship begins

Our work is particularly relevant when organisations are:

- Hiring or appointing senior personnel

- Evaluating business partners
- Entering unfamiliar markets
- Considering investments or acquisitions
- Assessing suppliers and intermediaries
- Investigating suspected fraud or misconduct
- Managing reputational exposure
- Evaluating cross-border transactions
- Managing high-value or high-risk relationships

Our Core Intelligence Areas

Human Risk Intelligence

Understanding the individuals an organisation is considering hiring, appointing, partnering with or trusting.

Corporate & Counterparty Intelligence

Looking beyond corporate registration to examine ownership, control, relationships and relevant risk indicators.

Cross-Border Intelligence

Supporting organisations dealing with unfamiliar people, companies and markets across jurisdictions.

Transaction Intelligence

Providing intelligence on the people, companies and relationships behind investments, acquisitions, partnerships and joint ventures.

Reputation & Network Intelligence

Understanding relevant digital footprints, relationships, influence and reputational issues.

Market & Strategic Intelligence

Assessing political, commercial, regulatory, stakeholder and operational environments relevant to market-entry and expansion decisions.

OUR SERVICES

Intelligence Designed Around Your Decision

1. Human Risk Intelligence

Can you afford to trust this person?

We provide enhanced intelligence assessments for organisations considering whether to hire, appoint, promote or partner with an individual.

Our assessments may examine:

- Identity and background
- Professional history
- Corporate affiliations
- Directorships and business interests
- Conflicts of interest
- Relevant relationships
- Adverse information
- Litigation and regulatory exposure
- Reputation
- Digital footprint
- Political exposure
- Relevant associations
- Information inconsistencies

Suitable for executive appointments, board appointments, investments, partnerships, sensitive hires and high-trust positions.

2. Corporate & Counterparty Intelligence

Know the company behind the registration.

A corporate registration can confirm that an entity exists. It may not provide the complete picture needed before committing capital, reputation or resources.

We help clients assess:

- Corporate identity

- Ownership and control
- Beneficial ownership
- Directors and key individuals
- Related companies
- Business relationships
- Reputation
- Litigation and regulatory issues
- Adverse information
- Political exposure
- Potential conflicts of interest
- Digital presence
- Information inconsistencies

This service supports assessments of suppliers, distributors, local partners, joint ventures, acquisition targets, investors, strategic alliances, customers and intermediaries.

3. African Cross-Border Counterparty Intelligence

Before you enter the relationship, understand the relationship.

Cross-border commercial activity creates opportunities, but it can also create information gaps.

We help organisations investigate unfamiliar counterparties and answer five critical questions:

Who are we dealing with?

Who owns or controls the entity?

Who are they connected to?

What information may be missing?

What could become our problem?

Our intelligence can support decisions to proceed, pause, conduct further due diligence, seek additional verification, renegotiate or decline a relationship.

4. Pre-Investment & Transaction Intelligence

Investigate the people behind the deal.

Financial due diligence examines the numbers. Legal due diligence examines the legal position.

Our role is to examine the intelligence surrounding the people, companies and relationships behind a transaction.

We support:

- Private equity firms
- Investors
- Family offices
- Corporate development teams
- M&A advisers
- Law firms
- Corporate finance firms

Applications include acquisitions, investments, joint ventures, strategic partnerships, management buyouts, major financing decisions and cross-border transactions.

5. Executive Vetting & Leadership Due Diligence

Leadership risk is business risk.

Senior executives influence strategy, reputation, capital allocation and organisational culture.

We provide deeper intelligence assessments for senior leadership and sensitive positions.

Assessments may include:

- Career verification

- Corporate affiliations
- Public reputation
- Adverse information
- Litigation
- Conflicts of interest
- Undisclosed business interests
- Digital footprint
- Relevant integrity concerns

Suitable for CEOs, CFOs, COOs, board members, senior executives, country managers and other high-trust appointments.

6. Reputation & Digital Footprint Intelligence

Your reputation exists beyond your official profile.

Individuals and organisations leave information across the digital environment.

We examine relevant publicly available information, which may include:

- Media
- Professional platforms
- Social media
- Digital publications
- Public forums and discussions
- Historical web content
- Lawfully accessible archived material
- Adverse information
- Reputation trends

This can support executive appointments, investments, partnerships, reputation-risk assessments, crisis preparation and pre-transaction intelligence.

7. Network & Influence Intelligence

Understanding connections can change the decision.

Risk is not always visible when an individual or organisation is examined in isolation.

We analyse relevant relationships between individuals, companies, directors, owners, business partners, intermediaries and other entities connected to the matter.

Where legally and ethically relevant, this may also include analysis of political or influential actors.

The objective is to identify relevant patterns, relationships and potential conflicts that may affect a client's decision.

8. Market Entry & Strategic Intelligence

Do not enter a market blind.

Entering a new jurisdiction requires more than a general market report.

We provide practical intelligence concerning:

- Political dynamics
- Regulatory environments
- Stakeholders
- Commercial actors
- Competitors
- Local partners
- Reputation considerations
- Operational risks
- Emerging developments

This is particularly relevant to organisations expanding across African markets and Canadian organisations exploring commercial opportunities in Africa.

9. Third-Party & Supplier Integrity Intelligence

Your risk can come through someone else.

Suppliers, consultants, agents, distributors, contractors and other external partners can create significant exposure.

We help organisations understand who those third parties are before they become part of the organisation's commercial ecosystem.

Assessments may examine:

- Ownership
- Reputation
- Integrity concerns
- Corporate relationships
- Conflicts of interest
- Political exposure
- Adverse information
- Other relevant risk indicators

10. Fraud & Integrity Intelligence

When something does not add up, investigate it.

We support organisations facing concerns involving potential fraud, misconduct, conflicts of interest or other integrity issues.

Our work may support:

- Internal investigations
- Corporate inquiries
- Fraud intelligence
- Conflict-of-interest inquiries
- Third-party misconduct concerns
- Reputation-related investigations
- Fact development

- Digital intelligence
- Open-source research

Our objective is to establish relevant facts and provide intelligence that can support internal decision-making, legal counsel and further investigative action where appropriate.

11. Continuous Intelligence Monitoring

Risk does not end when the deal is signed.

A person or company presenting no significant concerns today may develop new exposure tomorrow.

Where appropriate, we can monitor selected individuals, organisations or counterparties for agreed intelligence indicators, including:

- Adverse media
- Corporate changes
- Leadership changes
- New affiliations
- Litigation developments
- Regulatory developments
- Reputation developments
- Relevant digital activity
- Other agreed indicators

This service is designed for organisations managing ongoing relationships with high-value or high-risk counterparties.

ETHICS

Intelligence With Professional Boundaries

Intelligence work carries significant responsibilities. Information can affect reputations, commercial relationships, employment decisions and individual privacy.

Mbhidiya Intelligence therefore approaches every engagement with professional discretion, independence and respect for applicable legal and ethical boundaries.

Accuracy Over Assumption

We distinguish between verified information, credible indicators, allegations, unverified claims and intelligence gaps.

We do not present an allegation as an established fact.

Lawful Collection

Our work is based on appropriate investigative and research methods. Publicly available information and other sources are assessed within applicable legal and professional boundaries.

We do not believe that everything technically accessible is automatically appropriate to obtain or use.

Confidentiality

Sensitive client information and investigative matters are handled discreetly and only shared with authorised parties as appropriate to the engagement.

Independence

Our role is to provide an objective intelligence assessment.

We do not make the client's decision for them. We provide the information, analysis and context necessary for informed decision-making.

Proportionality

Intelligence collection should have a legitimate purpose.

We seek to collect information that is relevant to the defined intelligence requirement rather than information simply because it is available.

No Predetermined Conclusions

Investigations should follow evidence rather than assumptions.

We remain alert to information that confirms a concern as well as information that challenges it.

Respect for Human Dignity

Intelligence and investigative work should be conducted professionally and responsibly, with appropriate consideration for privacy, reputation and individual rights.

Accountability

Where information cannot be independently verified, we identify the limitation.

Where further investigation is required, we say so.

Our objective is not to create certainty where none exists. It is to reduce uncertainty as far as the available evidence reasonably allows.

WHY MBHIDIYA INTELLIGENCE

The Difference Is Not Access to Information. It Is Understanding What the Information Means.

Information is increasingly available.

Judgment is not.

Our value is not simply finding a record or running a search. It is helping clients understand:

- What matters
- What does not
- What is missing
- What requires verification
- What may create future risk

Decision-Focused

We start with the client's decision and build the intelligence requirement around it.

Cross-Border

People, companies, relationships and information do not stop at national borders.

Evidence-Based

We distinguish between verified information, allegations, indicators and intelligence gaps.

Confidential

Sensitive matters require discreet and appropriate handling.

Independent

We provide intelligence that enables clients to make their own informed decisions.

CANADA & AFRICA

Connecting Canadian and African Commercial Intelligence

Canada and Africa are increasingly connected through trade, investment, critical minerals, infrastructure, technology and other commercial sectors.

As organisations expand across borders, they face a practical challenge:

How do you assess a company, executive, partner or intermediary in a market where your existing information sources may be limited?

That is where Mbhidiya Intelligence operates.

We support:

Canadian organisations entering African markets

Understanding potential partners, counterparties and operating environments.

African organisations expanding across borders

Assessing unfamiliar commercial relationships and counterparties.

Investors evaluating cross-border opportunities

Investigating the people, companies and relationships behind potential transactions.

Professional advisers

Adding specialised intelligence capability to complex transactions, investigations and client matters.

Our geographic coverage follows client mandates, commercial corridors, local research capability and trusted professional networks.
