

Mbhidiya Intelligence

Cross-Border Intelligence for High-Stakes Decisions

We help organisations investigate the people, companies, networks and markets behind critical business decisions across Canada and Africa.

1. HOME PAGE

Know Who You're Dealing With. Know What You're Missing Before It Becomes Your Problem.

Mbhidiya Intelligence provides cross-border intelligence, due diligence and investigative services that help organisations make informed decisions about people, companies, partners and opportunities.

We help clients answer the questions that conventional due diligence, databases and public records do not always answer.

Who are we really dealing with?

Who controls the company?

Who influences the decision-makers?

What information is missing?

What risks are hidden beneath the surface?

What could become our problem after we sign the deal?

Intelligence for High-Stakes Decisions

Business decisions often depend on trust.

You hire an executive.

You acquire a company.

You select a local partner.

You enter a new market.

You appoint an intermediary.

You invest capital.

You rely on a supplier.

The information available on paper may look reassuring.

But public profiles, corporate registrations, references and standard due diligence do not always reveal the full picture.

Mbhidiya Intelligence helps organisations identify the people, relationships, interests, reputational issues and intelligence gaps that may affect a decision.

We turn fragmented information into a clearer understanding of risk.

Our Core Intelligence Areas

Human Risk Intelligence

Understand the people you are considering hiring, appointing, partnering with or trusting.

Corporate & Counterparty Intelligence

Look beyond company registrations and identify ownership, control, relationships and potential red flags.

Cross-Border Due Diligence

Make informed decisions when entering unfamiliar markets or engaging unfamiliar people and companies.

Transaction Intelligence

Support investment, acquisition, partnership and joint-venture decisions with intelligence beyond conventional financial and legal due diligence.

Reputation & Network Intelligence

Understand how individuals and organisations are connected and what those connections may mean.

Market & Strategic Intelligence

Assess the political, commercial, regulatory and stakeholder environment before entering or expanding into a market.

One Intelligence Firm. Connected Markets.

Mbhidiya Intelligence supports organisations operating in Canada, Africa and cross-border commercial environments connecting the two.

Our work is particularly relevant to organisations dealing with unfamiliar counterparties, new markets, complex ownership structures and high-trust relationships.

Canada

We support Canadian organisations with:

- Executive and leadership intelligence
- Corporate and third-party due diligence
- Fraud and integrity inquiries
- Reputation and digital footprint intelligence
- Vendor and partner intelligence
- Internal and external investigations
- Cross-border intelligence
- Africa market-entry and counterparty intelligence

Canada is actively expanding its commercial engagement with African markets. The federal government's Africa Strategy includes support for Canadian businesses, an Africa Trade Hub and continued support for AfCFTA implementation. (Global Affairs Canada)

Africa

We support organisations operating across priority African markets with intelligence on:

- Local companies
- Business partners
- Executives
- Investors

- Suppliers
- Agents and intermediaries
- Beneficial ownership
- Political exposure
- Reputation
- Networks and influence
- Market-entry risks

Intelligence for an Increasingly Connected Africa

Cross-Border Opportunity Requires Cross-Border Intelligence.

The African Continental Free Trade Area is intended to deepen intra-African trade, investment and regional value chains. Its Digital Trade Protocol also aims to create more harmonised rules and a more predictable environment for digital trade across participating African markets.

As organisations expand across borders, they increasingly need to make decisions about people and companies they have never worked with before.

A South African company may need a partner in Kenya.

A Canadian investor may evaluate an opportunity in Côte d'Ivoire.

A financial institution may onboard a company with operations across several jurisdictions.

An investor may consider a company whose ownership, relationships and influence extend beyond one country.

This creates an intelligence problem.

The easier it becomes to connect markets, the more important it becomes to understand who operates within them.

Mbhidiya Intelligence helps clients reduce this information gap.

Our Priority Markets

We do not claim that every African country presents the same commercial opportunity or that intelligence can be delivered identically across the continent.

Our approach follows commercial corridors, client needs and strategic priorities.

Southern Africa

- South Africa
- Lesotho
- Botswana
- Namibia
- Zambia
- Zimbabwe
- Mozambique
- Eswatini
- Angola

Eastern Africa

- Kenya
- Tanzania
- Uganda
- Rwanda
- Ethiopia

West Africa

- Nigeria
- Ghana
- Côte d'Ivoire
- Senegal

Central Africa

- Democratic Republic of the Congo

- Republic of the Congo
- Cameroon
- Gabon

Strategic North and Continental Markets

- Egypt
- Morocco
- Mauritius

Our geographic coverage expands according to client mandates, local research capability and trusted professional networks.

2. ABOUT US PAGE

Intelligence Beyond What Is Obvious

Mbhidiya Intelligence is an intelligence and investigations firm helping organisations make better decisions in complex, high-risk and cross-border environments.

We work where conventional information becomes insufficient.

Our role is not simply to collect data.

Our role is to help clients understand:

- what the information means
- what may be missing
- what does not add up
- who is connected to whom
- where hidden risk may exist
- what requires further verification

We combine open-source intelligence, investigative methodology, corporate research, digital intelligence, network analysis and strategic assessment.

The result is intelligence designed to support decisions.

Our Mission

To help organisations reduce uncertainty by providing clear, defensible and actionable intelligence about people, companies, relationships and markets.

Our Approach

1. Define the Decision

Every investigation starts with a practical question.

What decision does the client need to make?

2. Identify the Intelligence Gap

We determine what the client knows, what remains unclear and what information could materially affect the decision.

3. Investigate

We use appropriate research and investigative methods to collect, verify and analyse relevant information.

4. Connect the Dots

Information rarely exists in one place.

We examine people, companies, ownership structures, digital footprints, relationships and other relevant connections.

5. Deliver an Assessment

We do not simply provide a collection of search results.

We provide an assessment of the relevant intelligence, identified risks, information gaps and recommended next steps.

3. SERVICES PAGE

Our Services

1. Human Risk Intelligence

Can You Afford to Trust This Person?

Important decisions often depend on the integrity, background and behaviour of individuals.

Mbhidiya Intelligence provides enhanced intelligence assessments for organisations considering whether to hire, appoint, promote, partner with or otherwise place trust in an individual.

Typical subjects include:

- Senior executives
- Board members
- Investment partners
- Business partners
- Consultants
- Agents
- Intermediaries
- Key employees
- High-trust personnel

Our work may examine:

- Identity and background
- Professional history
- Corporate affiliations
- Directorships and business interests
- Undisclosed relationships
- Conflicts of interest
- Adverse information
- Litigation and regulatory exposure
- Reputation
- Digital footprint
- Political exposure

- Relevant associations
- Integrity concerns
- Information inconsistencies

Best suited for:

Executive appointments. Board appointments. Investments. Partnerships. Sensitive hires. High-trust roles.

2. Corporate & Counterparty Intelligence

Know the Company Behind the Registration.

A corporate registry may tell you that a company exists.

It may not tell you everything you need to know before committing capital, reputation or resources.

Our Corporate and Counterparty Intelligence service helps clients understand the organisation and the people behind it.

We may examine:

- Corporate identity
- Ownership and control
- Beneficial ownership
- Directors and key individuals
- Related companies
- Historical business relationships
- Reputation
- Litigation
- Regulatory issues
- Adverse information
- Political exposure
- Commercial relationships

- Potential conflicts of interest
- Digital presence
- Information inconsistencies

Typical use cases:

- New suppliers
- Distributors
- Local partners
- Joint ventures
- Acquisition targets
- Strategic alliances
- Investors
- Major customers
- Agents and intermediaries

3. African Cross-Border Counterparty Intelligence

Before You Enter the Relationship, Understand the Relationship.

This is one of our flagship services.

The expansion of trade, investment and commercial activity across African markets creates new opportunities.

It also creates new information gaps.

Before entering a transaction or commercial relationship, Mbhidiya Intelligence helps clients investigate unfamiliar counterparties.

We answer five critical questions:

1. Who are we dealing with?

We examine the people and organisations involved.

2. Who owns or controls the entity?

We investigate ownership, influence and relevant relationships.

3. Who are they connected to?

We examine relevant corporate, commercial and other relationships.

4. What information may be missing?

We identify inconsistencies, gaps and areas requiring further verification.

5. What could become our problem?

We assess relevant integrity, reputational, regulatory, political and relationship risks.

Deliverable

Clients receive an intelligence assessment designed to support a decision to:

- Proceed
- Pause
- Conduct further due diligence
- Seek additional verification
- Renegotiate
- Decline the relationship

4. Pre-Investment & Transaction Intelligence

Investigate the People Behind the Deal.

Financial due diligence examines the numbers.

Legal due diligence examines the legal position.

Our role is to examine the intelligence surrounding the people, companies and relationships behind the transaction.

This service supports:

- Private equity firms
- Investors
- Family offices
- Corporate development teams

- M&A advisers
- Law firms
- Corporate finance firms

Typical applications:

- Acquisitions
- Investments
- Joint ventures
- Strategic partnerships
- Management buyouts
- Major financing decisions
- Cross-border transactions

Areas of investigation may include:

- Founders
- Executives
- Directors
- Beneficial owners
- Key business partners
- Agents and intermediaries
- Political exposure
- Reputation
- Corporate networks
- Undisclosed interests
- Potential conflicts

5. Executive Vetting & Leadership Due Diligence

Leadership Risk Is Business Risk.

Senior executives influence strategy, reputation, capital allocation and organisational culture.

A conventional reference check may not be sufficient for high-trust appointments.

Our Executive Vetting service provides a deeper intelligence assessment of candidates for senior leadership and sensitive positions.

Suitable for:

- CEOs
- CFOs
- COOs
- Board members
- Senior executives
- Country managers
- High-risk leadership appointments

Areas may include:

- Career verification
- Corporate affiliations
- Public reputation
- Adverse information
- Litigation
- Conflicts of interest
- Undisclosed business interests
- Digital footprint
- Relevant integrity concerns
- Other intelligence relevant to the appointment

6. Reputation & Digital Footprint Intelligence

Your Reputation Exists Beyond Your Official Profile.

People and organisations leave information across the digital environment.

Our work helps clients understand how an individual, company or organisation is represented across relevant online sources.

This may include:

- Publicly available media
- Professional platforms
- Social media
- Digital publications
- Forums and public discussion
- Historical web content
- Archived material where lawfully accessible
- Adverse information
- Reputation trends

This service can support:

- Executive appointments
- Investment decisions
- Partnership decisions
- Reputation risk assessments
- Crisis preparation
- Pre-transaction intelligence

7. Network & Influence Intelligence

Understanding Connections Can Change the Decision.

In complex commercial environments, risk may not be visible by examining one person or one company in isolation.

We analyse relevant relationships between:

- Individuals

- Companies
- Directors
- Owners
- Business partners
- Intermediaries
- Political actors where legally and ethically relevant
- Other entities connected to the matter

The objective is to identify relevant patterns, relationships and potential conflicts that may affect the client's decision.

8. Market Entry & Strategic Intelligence

Do Not Enter a Market Blind.

Before entering a new jurisdiction, organisations need more than general market reports.

They need practical intelligence about the operating environment.

Mbhidiya Intelligence supports market-entry decisions by examining relevant:

- Political dynamics
- Regulatory environment
- Stakeholders
- Commercial actors
- Competitors
- Local partners
- Reputation considerations
- Operational risks
- Emerging developments

This service is particularly relevant for organisations expanding across African markets and Canadian organisations exploring commercial opportunities on the continent.

Canada's current Africa Strategy specifically identifies increased trade, investment, infrastructure, critical minerals and commercial cooperation as strategic priorities.

9. Third-Party & Supplier Integrity Intelligence

Your Risk Can Come Through Someone Else.

Organisations increasingly depend on suppliers, consultants, agents, distributors and external partners.

We help clients understand who those third parties are before they become part of the organisation's commercial ecosystem.

We support assessments involving:

- Suppliers
- Vendors
- Agents
- Consultants
- Distributors
- Contractors
- Intermediaries
- Joint-venture partners

Our intelligence can help identify relevant concerns involving:

- Ownership
- Reputation
- Integrity
- Corporate relationships
- Conflicts of interest
- Political exposure
- Adverse information
- Other relevant risk indicators

10. Fraud & Integrity Intelligence

When Something Does Not Add Up, Investigate It.

Mbhidiya Intelligence supports organisations facing concerns involving potential fraud, misconduct, conflicts of interest or other integrity issues.

Our work may support:

- Internal investigations
- Corporate inquiries
- Fraud intelligence
- Conflict-of-interest inquiries
- Third-party misconduct concerns
- Reputation-related investigations
- Fact development
- Digital intelligence
- Open-source research

We work to establish facts and provide intelligence that can support internal decision-making, legal counsel and further investigative action where appropriate.

11. Continuous Intelligence Monitoring

Risk Does Not End When the Deal Is Signed.

A person or company that presents no significant concerns today may develop new exposure tomorrow.

Mbhidiya Intelligence can provide ongoing monitoring of selected individuals, companies or counterparties for relevant changes and emerging information.

Monitoring may include:

- Adverse media
- Corporate changes

- Leadership changes
- New affiliations
- Litigation developments
- Regulatory developments
- Reputation developments
- Relevant digital activity
- Other agreed intelligence indicators

This service is designed for organisations managing ongoing relationships with high-value or high-risk counterparties.

4. SECTORS PAGE

Technology & Digital Businesses

Support cross-border expansion, partnerships, executive appointments and third-party relationships.

5. WHY MBHIDIYA INTELLIGENCE

The Difference Is Not Access to Information. It Is Understanding What the Information Means.

Information is increasingly available.

Judgment is not.

Our value is not simply finding a record or running a search.

Our value is helping clients understand:

- What matters
- What does not
- What is missing
- What requires verification
- What may create future risk

We bring an investigative mindset to commercial decisions.

Our work is:

Decision-focused

We start with the client's decision.

Cross-border

We understand that information, people and business relationships do not stop at national borders.

Evidence-based

We distinguish between verified information, allegations, indicators and intelligence gaps.

Confidential

We treat sensitive matters accordingly.

Independent

Our role is to provide intelligence that helps clients make their own informed decisions.

6. AFRICA & CANADA PAGE

Connecting Canadian and African Commercial Intelligence

Canada and Africa are becoming increasingly connected through trade, investment, critical minerals, infrastructure, technology and other commercial sectors.

Canada's 2025 Africa Strategy explicitly aims to strengthen economic cooperation and support Canadian companies pursuing opportunities across African markets. The strategy also includes continued support for AfCFTA implementation and new mechanisms intended to strengthen Canada-Africa commercial engagement. (Global Affairs Canada)

For organisations, however, opportunity creates a practical challenge.

How do you assess a company, executive, partner or intermediary in a market where your existing information sources may be limited?

That is where Mbhidiya Intelligence operates.

We help:

Canadian organisations entering African markets

Understand potential partners, counterparties and operating environments.

African organisations expanding across borders

Conduct intelligence and due diligence before entering unfamiliar commercial relationships.

Investors evaluating cross-border opportunities

Investigate the people, companies and relationships behind potential transactions.

Professional advisers

Add specialised intelligence capability to complex transactions and client matters.

7. INTELLIGENCE PROCESS PAGE

How We Work

Step 1: Confidential Consultation

We discuss the decision, concern or transaction.

Step 2: Scope the Intelligence Requirement

We define:

- The subject
- The decision
- The questions
- Relevant jurisdictions
- Required deliverables

Step 3: Intelligence Collection & Analysis

We conduct the agreed research and investigative work.

Step 4: Assessment

We analyse the information and identify:

- Relevant findings
- Risk indicators
- Inconsistencies
- Intelligence gaps
- Areas requiring further verification

Step 5: Intelligence Report

You receive a clear assessment designed to support your decision.

Step 6: Ongoing Support

Where appropriate, we can provide additional investigation, verification or continuous monitoring.
